Centennial statuary proposed for campus

The campus may acquire some original statuary as part of its celebration of Canada's centennial.

In late August, the board of governors approved the commission of a piece of sculpture, such as a free-standing statue, for the campus. The sculpture will be located out-of-doors, possibly in the quadrangle east of the Arts Building and north of the Rutherford Library.

No firm decision has yet been made on the artist, the nature of the work of art, or its final location. Nor has the cost been definitely fixed yet.

"It is our first venture into anything of this kind, except for the fountain in the Physical Sciences Building courtyard," Dr. W. H. Johns, president, said. "The public works department included that fountain in plans for this building. It has attracted so much favorable comment that we felt another project of this type would be a good idea, and Canada's centennial a good time to do it."

The University prefers to engage an Alberta artist for the work, but will not restrict the choice to Albertans. Members of the University's department of art are acting as advisors for the project.

Staff news

Awarded fellowship

Dr. Adam S. Little, associate professor of clinical medicine, has been awarded a fellowship in the American College of Physicians, it was announced recently.

Dr. Little originally joined the faculty in 1956, and rejoined it last month after serving as head of the provincial cancer clinic in Edmonton for a year. He is also a fellow of the Royal College of Physicians of Canada.

To Tokyo and Kiev

Dr. R. E. Folinsbee, chairman of the department of geology, is currently attending the Pacific Science Congress in Tokyo, where he is Canadian delegate in geology. He will read a paper at the congress. In October, Dr. Folinsbee is to go to Kiev for a meeting of the international committee on geochronology, and a symposium of the committee on the absolute age of the precambrian formations of the USSR.

Heads chemical society

Dr. D. B. Robinson, chairman of the department of chemical and petroleum engineering, was recently elected as the first president of the newly-formed Canadian Society for Chemical Engineering.

Huston elected

Dr. M. J. Huston, dean of pharmacy, was elected second vice-president of the 8,500-member Canadian Pharmaceutical Association at its convention in St. John, New Brunswick, two weeks ago.

Great leap backward

William Samis has been appointed University information officer, and is now casting an langourous eye on the University's press relations, and the editorship of this publication.

Members of the staff whose activities—

interesting research, new or unusual projects, special conferences, new books—may be of interest to the University community or to the general public are encouraged to contact the information office.

New books

Hormones in Man and Animals, by Dr. E. O. Höhn of the department of physiology, was published this summer by the English Universities Press, London, England. The work deals with endocrinology in man, mammals and birds, and is illustrated with the author's line drawings.

Jonson's Romish Plot: a Study of 'Catiline' and its Historical Context, by B. N. de Luna, assistant professor of English, will be published in October or November by the Clarendon Press at Oxford. She considers Ben Jonson's attempt to re-enact the scandal-laden gunpowder plot (in which he himself had acted as government agent) behind the Roman facade of his ostensibly "pure" classical drama, Catiline His Conspiracy. The play didn't vindicate him. It merely deepened resentment, but ultimately proved to be the most talked-about play of the century.

Death

Dr. Ardrey Whidden Downs, professor emeritus of physiology and pharmacology, died July 10, 1966. He had studied at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and McGill, and was a fellow of the American Association for Advancement of Science and of the American College of Physicians.

Business conference here

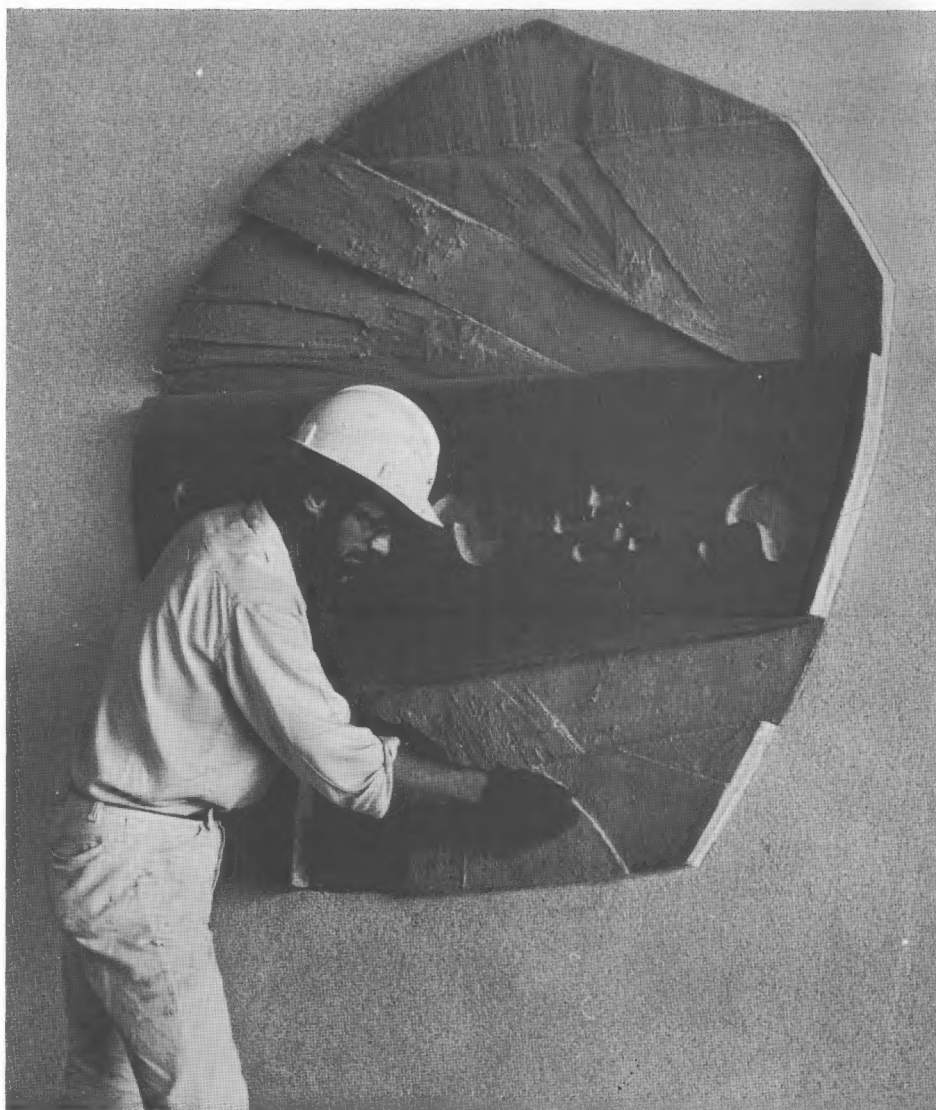

The Northwest Universities Business Administration Conference is to be held here October 14 and 15 as part of the golden jubilee celebrations of the faculty of business administration and commerce.

About 150 delegates are expected from the 18 business schools in western Canada and the northwestern United States. Sessions will be held on campus and in the Macdonald Hotel.

Dr. W. R. Dill of IBM, formerly of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, will be keynote speaker. Andrew Barr, chief accountant of the securities and exchange commission in Washington, and Dr. Donald Armstrong, dean of the graduate school of business at McGill, will also speak.

Denis Goodale is president, Dr. C. Brian Williams, secretary, and Charles A. Lee, treasurer, of the conference committee. All teach in the faculty of business administration here.

The new mural for the Engineering Building was assembled during and between last week's not infrequent downpours. It was designed and produced by Prof. Norman Yates of the art department, here working on the uppermost medallion (shown sitting on its left side). Paint for the pre-cast concrete slabs was specially prepared with the assistance of Union Carbide. Mr. Yates expects his mural will not be subject to the depredations of climate that caused the downfall of the previous, Italian mosaic, mural.

Coming events

New staff invited

The city of Edmonton is holding its twelfth annual reception for freshmen students on Friday, September 23, at 8:30 p.m., in the Jasper Place Sports Centre. Classicist visits campus

Professor Harry Caplan, the well-known classics professor from Cornell University, was in Edmonton for a brief visit to the University in late August. A special commemorative volume, or Festschrift, honoring his work, has been published by Cornell University Press.

Junior college approved

Academic affiliation of the new Grande Prairie Junior College with the University received final approval from the general faculty council and the board of governors in late August.

Affiliation is for an initial term of five years, and is contingent upon the college adhering to the University's academic standards. There is no financial involvement, however. The college will admit its first freshmen this month, and will offer twenty-two courses at the first year level.
